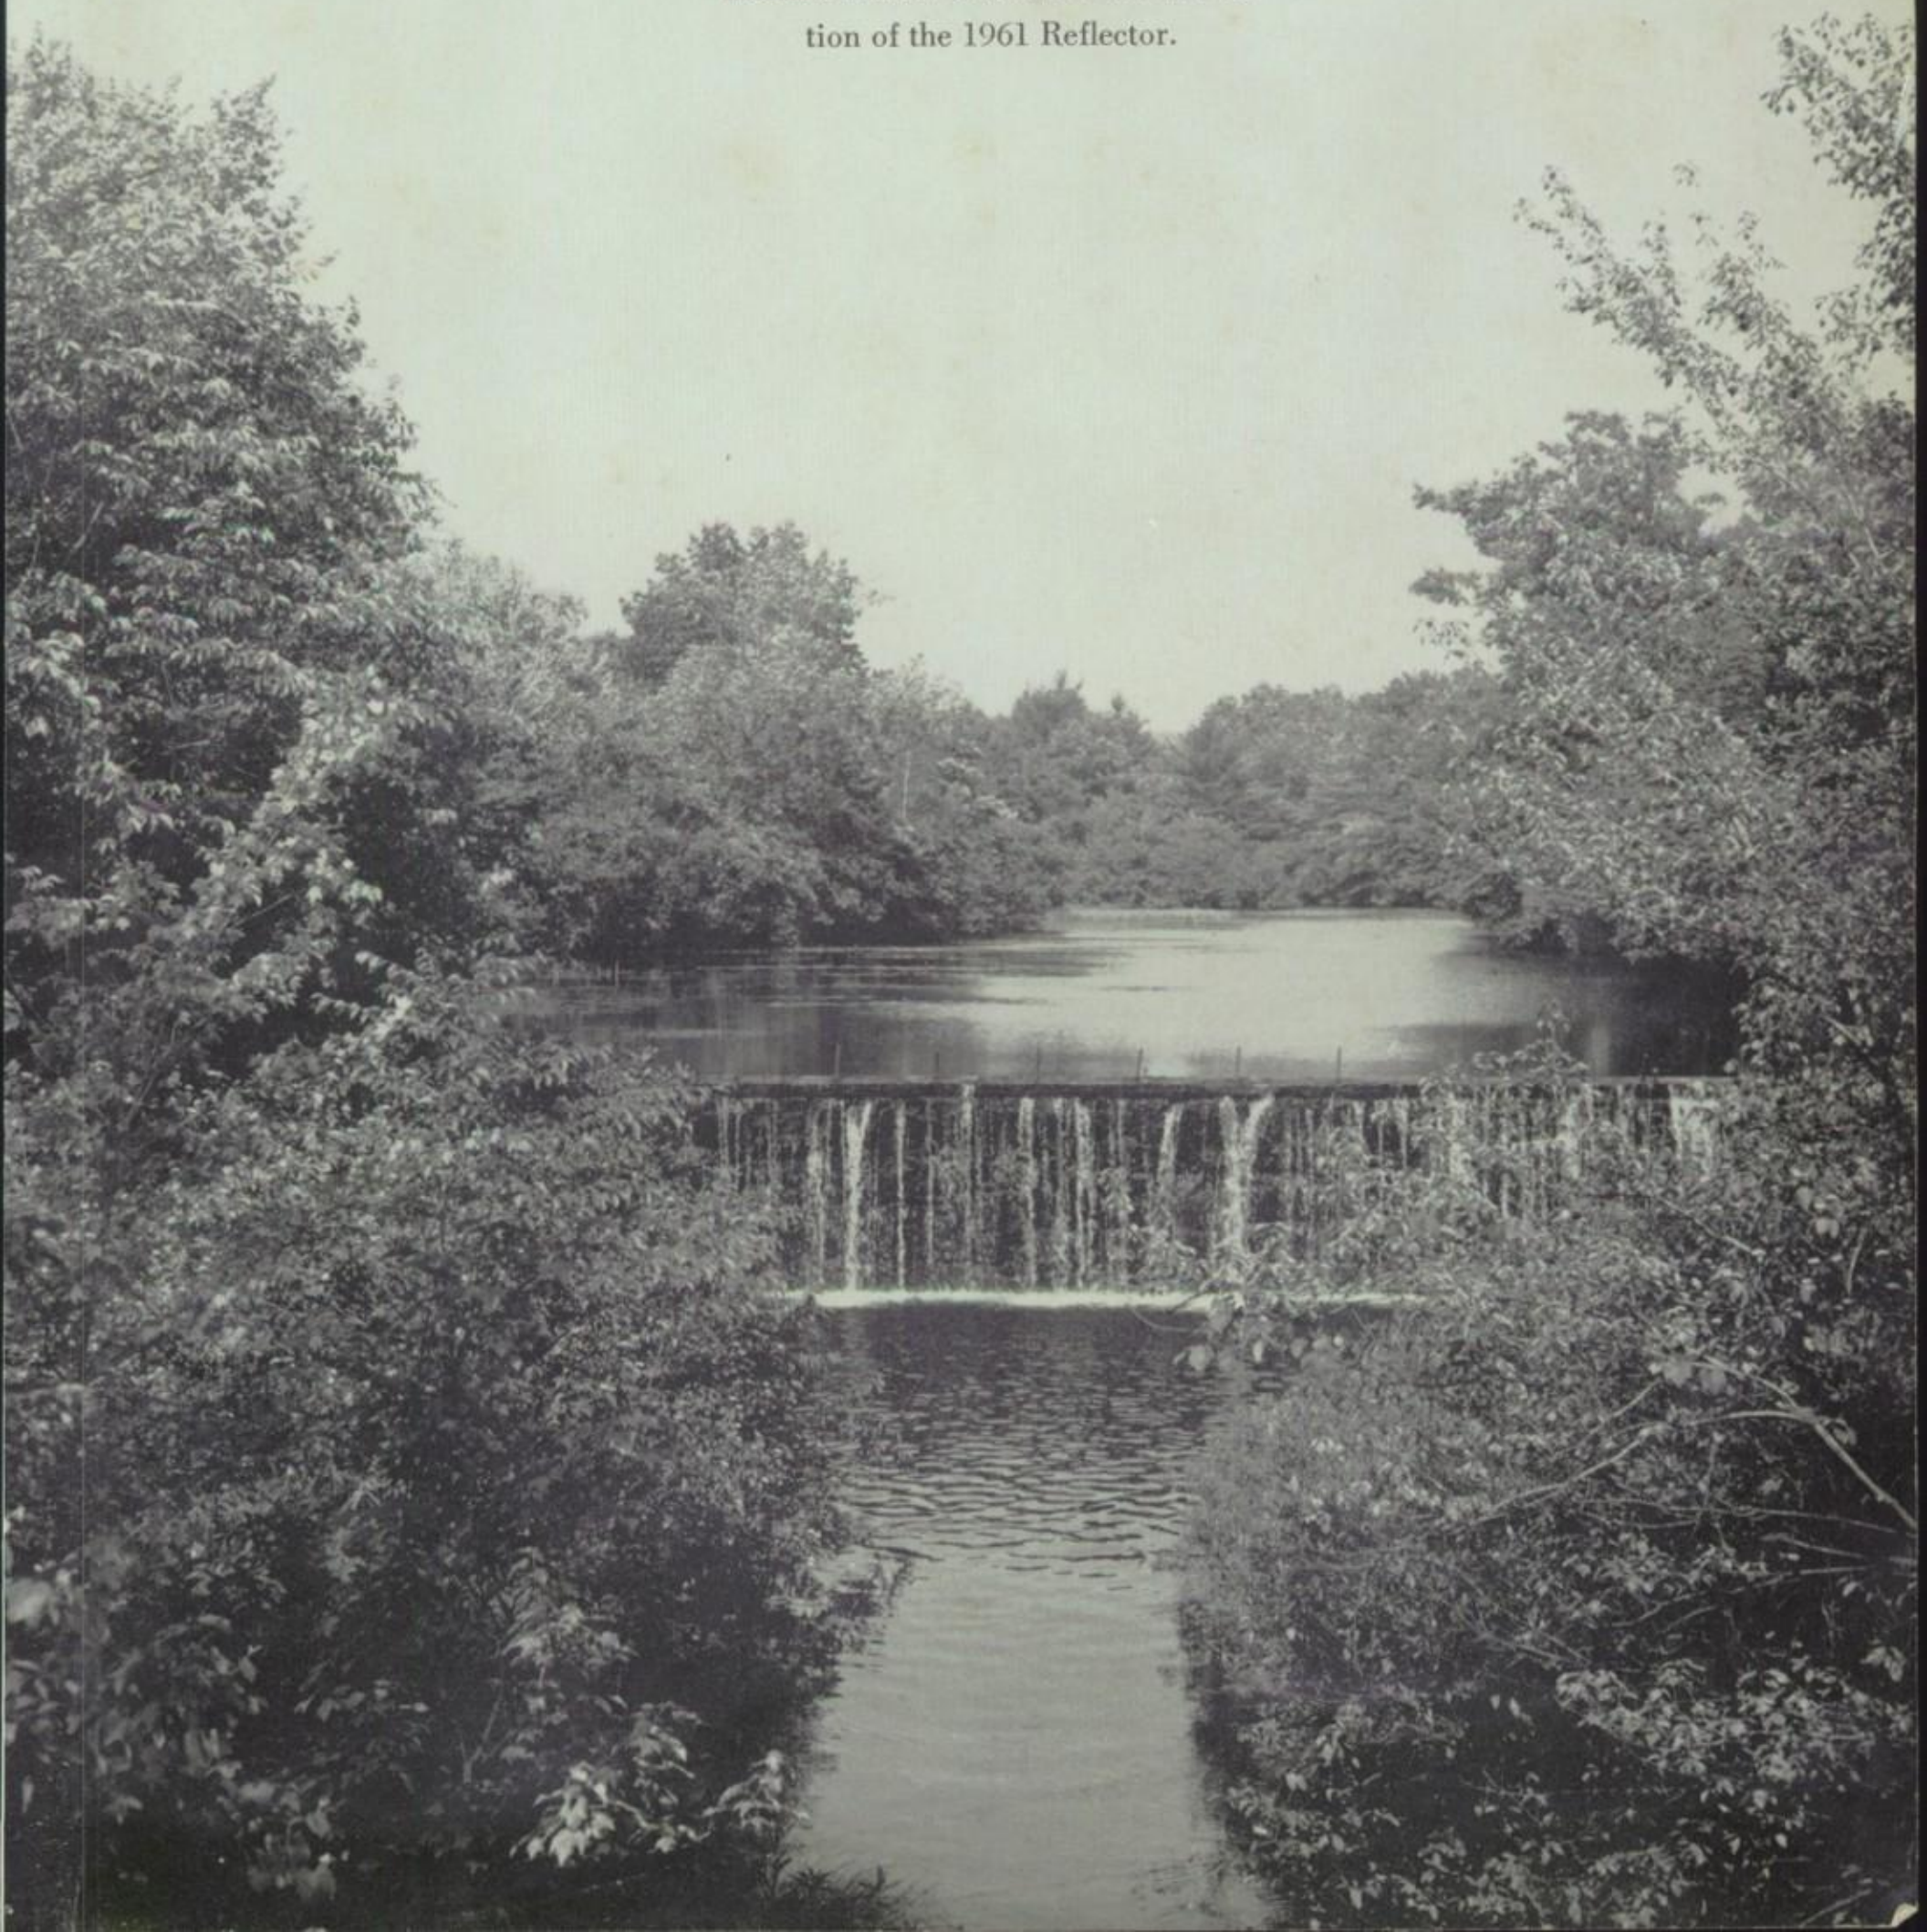
A Time To Dedicate

Through our four years at Cumberland High School we, the Class of 1961, have shared the friendship and kindness of a wonderful principal. He has shown us, his first graduating class, the importance of self-discipline and of the achievements that education holds for us. Interest and understanding of our problems have merited Robert G. Condon the dedication of the 1961 Reflector.



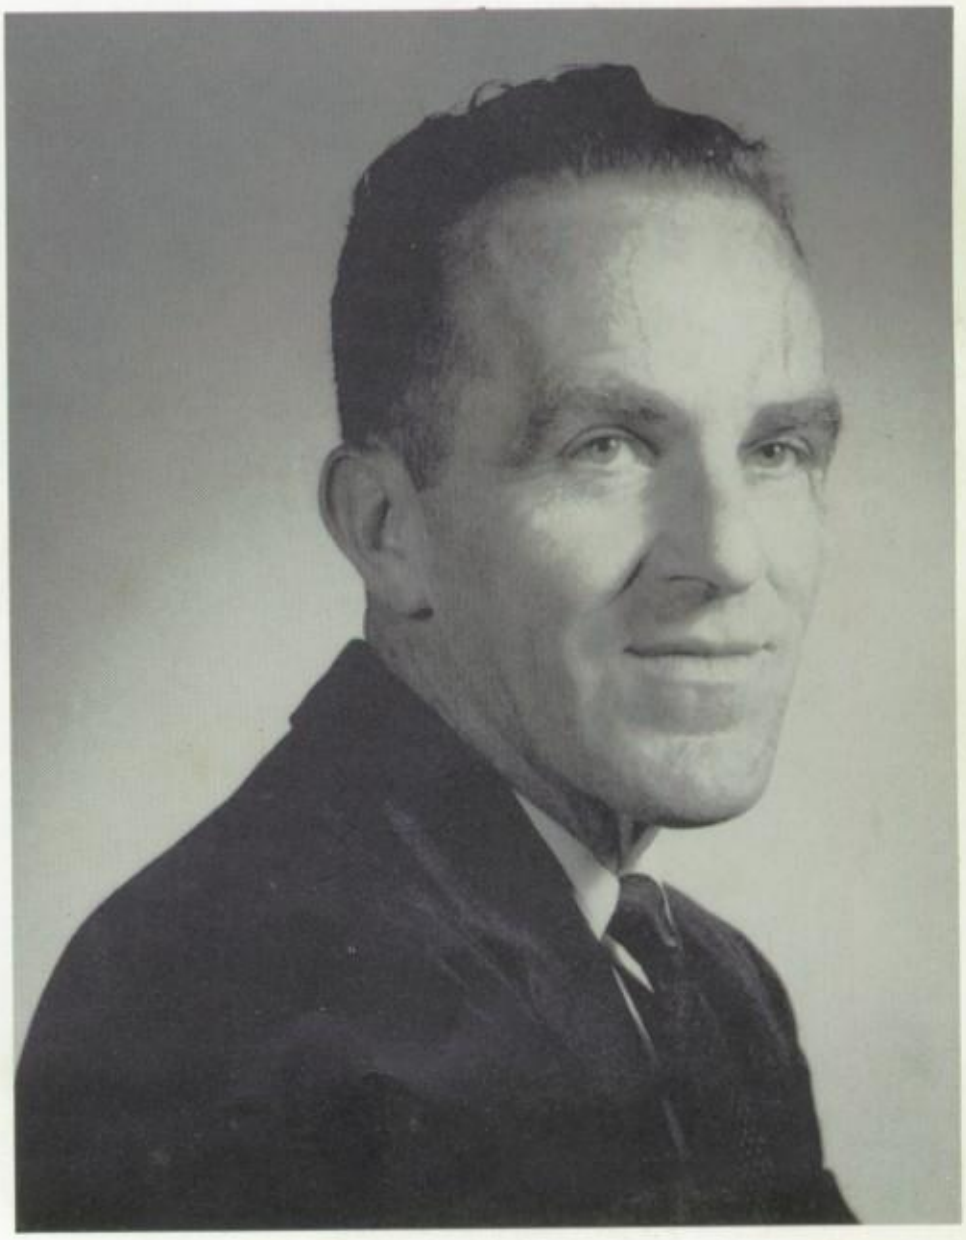
Superintendent

A superintendent is not necessarily all business as the Senior Class has observed. Mr. Norton has shown his interest in our undertakings and activities by promoting and participating in many of our school functions. Realizing that we are to be the leaders of this great democratic nation, he has helped us chart our future and establish our goals, not only during our high school years but from the very beginning of our education. Cumberland High School memories will always include Bernard F. Norton, one we are proud to call a friend.

Deans

There is a warm feeling of admiration in Cumberland High School's Seniors for our two deans, Miss Margaret R. Cullen and Mr. Thomas F. Skahan. Their understanding, continual co-operation, and willingness to guide us toward the success which lies in the future have been greatly appreciated. We proudly give thanks to Miss Cullen and Mr. Skahan, our advisors and inspirers.

They take the question out of our lives helping us chart our future.



So you think you have troubles?

The staff of the Twenty-third Edition of the Cumberland High School Reflector wishes to thank Mr. William J. Connor, our Faculty Advisor, and Miss Susan Whitman, our Editor, for the time and effort they have given in the preparation of our yearbook. We realize that without their helpful guidance our yearbook, as such, could never have been produced.

The task of advising a yearbook staff is not an easy one. Mr. Connor has helped the staff to faithfully record the memories of our high school years entered in this, the Reflector of the Class of 1961.

ENGLISH AND SPEECH

High school graduates today must be prepared to use effective English in speech and writing. They must have good vocabularies, know how to spell correctly, use correct grammar, have a knowledge of English and American literature, and be able to write compositions and reports. Our English department is designed to prepare students to employ skillfully their language on the job and in their future educational endeavors.

To enrich the program in English, Cumberland High School provides special classroom activities and electives. English classes have heard recordings of poetry and plays, prepared advanced research projects, acted out dramas, and taken field trips to literary landmarks in New England. Miss Jane Allaire conducts the two special classes, in remedial reading and creative writing. In creative writing advanced students compose newspaper articles, poetry, essays, dramas, short stories, and biographies.

Within the English department is speech, composed of two courses—an introduction to speech and speech arts. In the speech courses study of the speaking mechanism and its right use are combined with practical speaking situation in debating, public speaking, and parliamentary practice. This year speech students participated in a presidential campaign, visits to local radio and television stations, and the Voice of Democracy Contest. Another phase of the speech program is speech therapy, offered to those with speech impediments.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Social studies at Cumberland High School is mainly concerned with history, but it also includes civics, economics, and economic geography.

The field of social studies is devoted to human affairs, and history surveys the record of man's past. At Cumberland, Western history from primitive times to the Middle Ages is studied in ancient and medieval history, and the period from the 1600's to the present is covered in modern history. Our nation's history is taken up separately in the required course in American history.

Other courses in social studies provide an introduction to political and economic sciences; they are civics, economics, and economic geography.

TEST TUBE experiment (above) performed by Helen Mycroft, Aires Sena and Patricia Robitaille, helps to demonstrate scientific principles.

BLACKBOARD WORK in geometry is a means to demonstrate the art of problem solving for these seniors, Linda Watson and Paula Chomka.

SCIENCE

The need for a thorough scientific background on the secondary level is recognized at our high school. Every entering freshman is required to take a year of general science in which he gets an introduction to the basic subject matter of the physical and biological sciences.

The biological study is further developed in the sophomore year through a course devoted to biology. Through the study of plants and animals, students become aware of the classification of living things and the principles that govern them. This year the biology students have had ample opportunity to use microscopes and perform dissection. Special projects have included caring for an ant farm and acquarium and the raising of microscopic animals.

The two chemical sciences studied are chemistry and physics. Chemistry is the science that deals with the composition of elements or simple substances and the changes they undergo; physics, on the other hand, deals with matter and energy that do not involve changes in composition. A new subject this year, trade physics, has been added.

MATHEMATICS

In our age of scientific technology, an age when unparalleled achievements have placed man on the very threshold of space, varied mathematics courses have become a necessity, not only for college-bound students but also for those planning to enter technical fields.

At Cumberland High School, mathematics is taught with the primary objective of preparing students for life in a world where success is dependent upon logical thinking. Solving geometric theorems, algebraic equations, and other mathematical problems helps the student develop effective methods of study and reasoning, as well as providing a background for future study.

In addition to offering plane geometry, algebra, trigonometry, and solid geometry in its curriculum, two years ago Cumberland High School became one of the first schools in Rhode Island to offer advanced mathematics. A preliminary college course in analytic geometry and calculus; it is designed for students who plan careers in mathematics or science.

VISUAL CAST

OVERHEAD PROJECTOR (left), an example of our modern equipment, is used to enlarge materials printed on transparencies and translucencies. The machine is being operated by Fred Lourenco and Jan Nickodem.

BUSINESS STUDENTS receive training in the use of business machines such as comptometers, mimeographs, dictographs and typewriters, operated here (above) by Dolores Alfonso and Mary Jane Perry.

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS

An American history class watches slides showing the causes of the American Revolution. In a nearby classroom, French students listen to a recording of the common French idioms. These are only two examples of the many services performed by the Audio-Visual Aids department, instituted at Cumberland High School this year. Through this department, under the direction of Miss Christina R. Burns, classes are provided with audio and visual material to supplement the course of study and broaden the scope of the students' interest in various fields.

This department circulates film, slides, recordings, and other educational materials to classes throughout the school. Some of the pieces of equipment are 16 mm motion picture projectors, filmstrip-slide projectors and tape recorders. Materials include over three hundred filmstrips in various subjects, record albums, tapes, and transparencies. To distribute the equipment, the Audio-Visual Club has been organized.

BUSINESS

Business education at Cumberland not only provides vocational and personal preparation in the world of business but also contributes to the goals of general education. It gives students a knowledge of consumer business information and an acquaintance with the needs of the community being served.

In the freshman year students receive an introduction to business procedures through courses in general business and commercial arithmetic. During the sophomore year, business students begin the study of bookkeeping and typewriting. These subjects in an advanced form, along with shorthand, make up the program for the junior year. As seniors, students continue the study of bookkeeping and shorthand and enter the advanced phases of business training, transcription and office practice.

The regular curriculum is supplemented by speakers from various branches of business, demonstrations of business machines, and audio-visual aids on vocational topics.

LANGUAGES

In order to understand more fully the people and customs of foreign lands, it is important to have a knowledge of foreign languages. With this principle in mind, the student body can at the present study Latin, the foundation for all Romance languages, and French. Added to these languages next year will be Spanish and either German or Portuguese. To help students master a language there will also be language laboratories in the new school.

Students are offered two courses in Latin and three courses in the French language. This year French III, a new and advanced course in French, has been instituted. The French and Latin Clubs give language students the opportunity to increase their knowledge of the language and culture of France and ancient Rome.

ART

Art is a form of expressing ideas either through abstract or objective design; by using one of the mediums such as oil, water color, or pastel. The aim of the art department, under the direction of Miss Irene Geddes, is to stimulate in the student an interest in classical art and to develop his creative ability. Phases of art work include mosaic design, textile painting, lettering, and still life.

Mechanical drawing, a division of the art department, gives students the opportunity to work with blueprints and instruments similar to those used by draftsmen in the field of industrial design and engineering.

MUSIC

The Music Department at Cumberland High School endeavors to develop in the student a greater appreciation of music: classical, semi-classical, and modern. Joint concerts are given by the vocal music and orchestra students, who also provide musical entertainment at school assemblies. The orchestra, under the direction of Francis J. Carney, plays for the important school occasions: the annual Honors Day Assembly, Class Night, and graduation.

MUSIC-MAKERS, Marcia Andrade, Paula Chomka, Richard Alves, and Sandra Richard, are rewarded with many pleasure-filled moments, working together to provide enjoyable entertainment for others.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

In order to adequately prepare the future homemakers of America, Cumberland High School offers a four year home economics program in its curriculum. Designed to acquaint girls with some of the problems that will confront them in future years, home economics offers practical experience in sewing, cooking, and home management.

As their home furnishing project, the senior class supervised the interior decoration of the new Cumberland-Lincoln Boys' Club. Aided by Miss Picerne, the class chose appropriate color schemes for each room and made drapes for the entire building.

Other home economics classes dined in a nearby restaurant and toured silver-plating firms, where the students witnessed at first hand the production of silver articles.

DRESSMAKING, an essential division in the home economics course, offers practical experience to future homemakers, Faye Nazarian and Paulette Bacon.

ELECTRICITY

To keep pace with the rapid growth of the modern electrical industry and the increasing need for electricians, Cumberland High School offers an electricity course for trade students.

The students are taught electrical wiring and installation, which gives them a general background for electricity as a trade.

Each year the students do several projects, among which are wiring systems and conduit installation, on a smaller scale than the actual systems but closely following them. This procedure enables the student to put the knowledge he gains to practical use as well as preparing him for advanced study.

ISSUING wire at the supply room to Thomas Gaboriault for an electrical project are James Martell and Thomas Allen.

What would we do without them?

DELIVERING a letter to the superintendent's office is Mrs. Noela L. Pelchat, secretary to the principal. Secretaries to the superintendent are Mrs. Edith M. Quinn (left) and Mrs. Lillian P. Connors (right).

CUSTODIANS at the doorway to the school they take care of and maintain are Mr. John Wudyka, Mr. John Doris, and Mr. Hugh Fee.

For The Time Being

Underclassmen

Burden Of Increased Homework Lightened

Junior Class

In the past year, the Junior Class has made many advancements and improvements—socially, culturally and academically.

"Enthusiastic" is the one word which felicitously describes the spirit of the Junior Class. Their hoarse voices at the end of athletic events and the myriad club activities in which they have participated attest to their excellent school support.

At their successful Junior Social in October, old memories and friendships were again brought into focus. Soon after they elected their class officers, the students who were to lead them in their anticipated endeavors.

The members of the Junior Class realized they had passed the halfway mark in their climb to becoming seniors when, in December, the names of the members of their ring committee were announced. Mid-year exams in January and final exams in June assumed added importance this year because passing them was requisite to becoming seniors.

Then, in May of 1961, came the Junior Prom, the preeminent event on their social calendar. Here the receipt of their class rings gave the juniors a tangible confirmation of their progress. Next year at this time they knew they would be receiving their long-awaited diplomas if all continued to go well.

CLASS PRESIDENT, Fred Farrell, at the speaker's stand tries to answer a question from a fellow junior. Listening attentively are the other class officers—Christine Matta, secretary; Edward Custodio, treasurer; Mary Ellen McKee, vice president. Discussion at class meetings this year has centered around planning for class rings and the Junior Prom.

ALGEBRA is one of the required subjects for these college bound students. Here a typical junior group, Mr. Crowley's intermediate algebra class, studies enthusiastically, so they may become seniors.

FRIDAY NIGHT is the time for relaxation at the weekly social. Enjoying a special number played for the juniors are these members of the Junior Class: D. Augusto, G. Laroque, F. Farrell, M. Layman, M. Aragao, S. Mennerich, and E. Custodio.

Sophomores Find Adjusting To Sophomore Class

CHECKING to see how much money is on hand for the Sophomore Hop is treasurer Dennis Lavallee. Assisting in the counting are James Haworth, president, and Charles Pollock, vice president, while taking notes is class secretary, Doris DeGraves.

The school year of 1960-61 has drawn to a close, but it certainly won't be forgotten by this year's Sophomore Class.

The official activities of the year were very competently handled by the class officers. The president, James Haworth, and his executive staff, vice president, Charles Pollock; secretary, Doris DeGraves and treasurer, Dennis Lavallee kept the activities of the year running smoothly.

The year was given its official social start for the sophomores with the Sophomore Social. The event, taking place very early in the year, served to revive acquaintances with friends who hadn't been seen all summer and helped them meet new members of the class just entering Cumberland High School.

They all came back rested after the Christmas holidays, but their spirits were soon dampened with the approach of mid-year exams in the beginning of 1961.

The Sophomore Hop was held on April 7th. The general chairman, Alice Costa, and her committee certainly stopped at nothing to make the evening an enjoyable affair.

For the remainder of the year, the sophomores participated in individual extracurricular activities, until the last week of school, when they joined with the other classes for their class trip.

GATHERING their armfuls of books from their overstuffed lockers are these sophomores, awaiting the 8:15 bell, which begins the morning session.

SOPHOMORES played host to the other classes at the Sophomore Social, held on September 23.

Freshmen Swell School Population

FRESHMEN file in for afternoon session. Arriving freshmen come on the heels of departing upperclassmen.

Freshman Class

The largest freshman class ever, arrived at Cumberland High in September, 1960. Their orientation went quickly, but all anyone heard for the first week was, "Where's 9C?" "Can I go down these stairs?" "My name's Janet." "What's yours?" When at last they were familiar with the school, making new friends occupied most of their time between and during classes. At the Freshman Party they had a chance to see each other in a different atmosphere. Soon the freshmen knew their classmates well enough to elect class officers.

Because the school was operating on double sessions, the freshmen missed being teased by the "superior" upperclassmen. They were in school only from one to five, so extra studying was mandatory. Having all morning to study must have helped, because the number of freshmen with first and second honors pleasantly surprised everyone.

They formed a freshman basketball team and enthusiastically endorsed the varsity team. They participated actively in various clubs and every aspect of life at Cumberland.

The freshmen liked their first taste of high school at Cumberland High, and hoped to enjoy the next three years at the new school even more.

OFFICERS of the Freshman Class, who are present at sundown to take in the flag, are Linda Cooper, treasurer; John Koziol, president; Natalie Silva, vice president; and Joan Leach, secretary.

PARTY for freshmen featured dancing and entertainment provided by class singers and musicians.

SECURING the ball for Cumberland, Mike Aragao (4) challenges a North Providence player (54); N. Carr (32) plays the offensive.

The Cry Is, 'We Want A Basket'

Experience and teamwork made this year's Clippers an outstanding team. Cumberland, coached by Andrew Tucker, won six and lost eight. Although Cumberland didn't make the playoffs, the Clippers' aggressiveness made them a hard team to beat. Varsity players included Michael Aragao, Newman Carr, Norman Carr, Ronald Clement, Walter Dusza, Robert Faria, John Goffette, Robert Holcombe, Tony Machado and Joseph Marshall.

The Clippers began the season on January 3, with a victory over Woonsocket High, 69-58. At the next match Cumberland faced Sacred Heart. The Clippers' offensive was inspired by the varsity cheerleaders, but Cumberland's combined forces failed to down the Beavers, who won 89-77. Playing Vocational, the Clippers attained their highest point total of the Interscholastic Basketball League.

STRUGGLE for the ball gives players and spectators many suspense-filled moments. Mike Aragao (below) tries to prevent opposing team from making a basket while Joe Marshall watches expectantly.

Opponents Face Hard Battle

PLAYERS and spectators keep their eyes on the ball as it moves toward the basket.

In the second period Walt Dusza and Bob Faria combined for seven consecutive points to help the Clippers to an easy 96-56 victory over the Hawks.

Cumberland was then defeated in its next three matches. North Providence began the set back with a 76-68 win over the Clippers. On January 17, three of Cumberland's players, Arago, Dusza, and Marshall, scored 12, 13, and 11 points respectively, but Deering over-powered the Clippers, scoring a 75-60 win. In the following game, Ronnie Clement, a new teammate, played his first varsity game for CHS, but the combined team effort wasn't enough to beat Central Falls. The Warriors lead throughout the game and ended with a total of 65 points to the Clippers' 52.

Victory describes the following four games the Clippers played. Displaying fine teamwork, Cumberland faced Woonsocket on January 27. The Villa Novans really battled, but just couldn't defeat the Clippers, who won 76-72. Trying to beat the team that won over them earlier in the season, the Clippers pooled all their effort but were checked by Sacred Heart, ending in a 62-51 win for the Beavers. Cumberland had a return match on February 3 with Vocational. The Clippers, except during the first period, were in the lead and easily defeated the Hawks, 75-56. In the following game another victory cheer was given for the Clippers as they edged North Providence, 58-53.

HIGH SCORER of the Blackstone Valley, Mike Arago, (4) sinks another basket. Cumberland's Joe Marshall, (24) is caught in the scramble.

The Clippers' hopes for playoffs dwindled as Cumberland was defeated by Deering, 68-44. This match put the Clippers in a three way tie for fourth place, and began another losing streak for the Clippers. The crowd went wild on February 14, as the Clippers played Classical High. The Purple, with forty-two seconds left to play, scored the winning throw which resulted in a 49-48 win for Classical. Meeting Central Falls on February 17, the Clippers ended their hopes for playoffs, as the Warriors, although opposed by a terrific offensive, won the game, 59-45.

At Cumberland's final game of the season, the Clippers were determined to beat Classical High. Until half time the Purples were in the lead, but then Mike Aragao led his teammates into a 49-34 lead. Excitement filled the gym as Classical closed in 74-72. During the last fifteen seconds, Aragao dropped in two free shots that gave Cumberland a 78-76 victory over Classical.

Although the Clippers ended fifth, Cumberland High students should be proud of the sportsmanship of the players and especially of Michael Aragao who scored 455 points to win the Blackstone Valley scoring championship.

JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL

Through competition against other schools, the Junior Varsity players acquire a knowledge of the basketball fundamentals they will need as varsity players. This year's team included C. Carr, R. Carr, R. Clement, A. Hudson, V. Hughes, J. Smith, F. Farrell, J. Stenovitch, N. Carr, N. Carr, J. Goffettee, and R. Faria. Coached by Mr. Tucker and assisted by Mr. Ponton, the Jay Vee's won eight games and lost six.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

Because of the double sessions, it became necessary for the freshmen to compete in a junior high school league. The league consists of Slater Junior High, Jenks Junior High, Goff Junior High, Central Junior High, Riverside Junior High, and Central Falls Junior High.

Due to lack of experience, the team won only one game out of twelve which it played. Mr. Dragon was their coach.

Freshman players included B. Norton, W. Rafuse, A. Tucker, T. Stenovitch, C. Santos, J. Nicholson, J. Koziol, G. Souza, C. Jones, T. Almeida, J. McVeigh, R. LaFlamme, W. Catterall, and J. Harrison.

Bowling Becomes Prominent Activity

WEEKLY bowling session gives pleasure and exercise to girls like Arlene Griffin.

BOWLING ENTHUSIAST, Susan Potter, has helped to organize the Girls' Bowling Club.

CHOOSING a ball that will make a strike is Patricia Kelley.

GIRLS' BOWLING CLUB

During the past year the Girls' Bowling Club has had a very active season. Each week the girls, accompanied by their advisors, Miss Norton and Miss Michaud, bowled at Hamlet "30" Lanes in Pawtucket. To finance transportation to the alley, in October the members of the club held a "work day." It was so successful that the club ended up with a surplus, which they decided to donate to a worthy organization, the Medico Foundation.

A member of the American Junior Bowling Congress, the club participated in the AJBC Christmas Tournament on January 6 and 9. The high scorers were entered in national competition.

On June 17, 1961, the club held its first Awards Banquet at the Grist Mill in Seekonk, Massachusetts. Trophies and certificates were presented to the high bowlers. The bowling girls also had a chance to celebrate a successful year of bowling.

BOYS' BOWLING CLUB

Bowling at Cumberland High was again an extracurricular activity for boys, as it has been in prior years. This year the students bowled at the Hamlet "30" Lanes, in Pawtucket. Despite difficult conditions, twenty-five students participated in forming six teams. Mr. Tucker accompanied the students each week. Most of the teachers who bowled with the students last year taught during the afternoon and were unable to attend.

The officers of the Bowling Club were president, Robert Griffin; vice presidents, Ronald Clement and Albert Ferriera; treasurer, Kenneth Boday; and secretaries, Stephen Tucker and Walton Leach.

A new attraction was added to the Bowling Club this year. Each week the club members having the high three and the greatest improvement from his previous week bowled free the next week. At the conclusion of the year, the bowling club held its annual banquet to honor high scorers.

TOP bowler, R. Lanoue, demonstrates the style that brought him scoring honors this season.

SKI CLUB

To most Cumberland High students the record snow falls of last winter heralded unexpected school vacations, but to members of the newly-formed Ski Club they were assurances that skiing at the Diamond Hill State Forest Park would continue throughout the winter.

Formed this year with Mr. Skahan as faculty advisor and Joseph Burrows as coach, the Ski Club competed with Mount Saint Charles, Scituate, La Salle, Coventry, and Warwick high schools in weekly ski meets held at Diamond Hill State Park. Cumberland's skiers, George Sousa, Joyce Hacking, William Rafuse, Mark Peterson, Thomas Egan, Patricia Sousa, Alfred Marzocchi, and Paul Hogg, won scoring honors throughout the season and retained their leading position in the high school league. Because of their superior performances the team and several individual skiers from other high schools were selected to represent Rhode Island in the New England Competitions held at Bethel, Maine, during late February.

Fans Cheer Team To Victory

MEMORIAL PARK, dedicated last year, is the scene of all the home games.

Dedication of Memorial Park inaugurated last year's home season for baseball. The park, which has not been used for several years, was regraded and landscaped in time for the game on April 29. At the dedication, Bernard F. Norton, Superintendent of Schools, addressed the assemblage of students, teachers, and guests. In the game that followed the ceremony, Cumberland played Sacred Heart. Cumberland's other opponents for the season were Burriville, Central Falls, Mount Saint Charles, North Providence, Vocational, and Woonsocket. Last year's team included L. St. Pierre, A. Machado, R. Kissik, M. Aragao, S. Parlak, J. Marshall, F. Dombkowski, F. Crowley, J. Poli, and A. Szwec. The latter two graduated last June, but two new students, R. Clement and W. Dusza, have been added to the roster. With this line-up Coach Tucker looks forward to a very successful season this year.

SENIOR COUNCIL activities are posted by president, James Kaplan. Other members looking on are S. Skrzymiarz, D. Alfonso, E. Costa, M. Talbot, secretary; (BACK ROW) R. Koziol, P. Dacey, H. Oliver, vice president; M. McDermott, A. Gomberg; (AT RIGHT) T. Raiche, treasurer; K. Curran.

Student government at Cumberland High School is invested in our Student Council. Established last year, the Student Council promotes school loyalty, plans all student activities, and serves as a liaison between the faculty and the student body.

The Council's constitution provides for three main divisions. The Senior Council consists of twelve members of the Senior Class who are responsible for school assemblies, property, and publicity; the Senior Council also monitors the halls and serves as members of the Student Court. The Delegate Assembly, consisting of representatives from each home room, keeps the students informed about all school affairs and presents cases to the Student Court. The Liaison Committee serves as the individual classes and the Senior Council.

During the past year, the Student Council became affiliated with the State Student Councils Association and participated in the monthly meetings. Officers of the Student Council were James Kaplan, president; Haven Oliver, vice president; Michele Ann Talbot, secretary; and Theresa Raiche, treasurer. Miss Margaret C. Cullen is the faculty advisor.

NEWSPAPER CLUB

Student journalism at Cumberland High School is promoted by our monthly school paper, The Clipper. Created two years ago with Miss M. Jane Allaire as faculty advisor, The Clipper informs and entertains the student body with its articles about school activities.

Judy Jackson served as editor-in-chief this year and co-ordinated the activities of individual staff members. Nancy Baldwin was lead editor; Diane Teal, treasurer and special reporter; Dale McMutrie reported freshman class news.

Each issue includes feature articles about the Student and Senior Councils by Peter Antone and Ruth Cimino, information about upcoming social events and the activities of school clubs by Armand Harnois, Rosalie Szwec, Joseph Grigelevich, Janice Kelly, Orin Cook, and Susan Mennerick.

Each month the staff selects an outstanding person from the student body and provides readers with a short biography of the student written by Rita Wareham. In addition to writing and distributing the paper, the staff members review novels from the school library and reply to questions from individual students. Marsha Gorczynski and Judy Gilmore review novels in their column "The Browsing Corner"; Nancy Williams and Mary Casey conduct "The Inquirer." This year a new column, "The Career Corner," was added to The Clipper; Arlene Griffin discussed possible career choices and replied to questions from the individual students.

The paper was typed and mimeographed by Dolores Alfonso, Dorothy Rebello, Maria Alves, Camila Lima, Bonnie Ballou, Mary Jane Perry, Jean Lepore, Lorraine Auger, and Denise Taraska.

This year the staff visited a newspaper exhibit at the Old Slater Mill in Pawtucket and the Pawtucket Times, where they witnessed the production and distribution of a daily newspaper.

Future Clubs Give Members A Chance

DISCUSSING plans for the next Future Teachers Club meeting are officers J. Grigelevich, D. Graiko, A. Maziarz, M. Whittaker, and R. Schofield, who points to charter.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

The Future Teachers Club strives to encourage students to enter the teaching profession. One of the most active clubs in the school, the teachers club is advised by Mr. Beck. During the year the club has: received a fifty star flag from retired Senator Greene, which he will present to the new high school upon its dedication, collected toys for an orphanage, entertained the patients of a convalescent home, and held a convocation with the teachers club of Woonsocket High School. Chosen officers for the year were Ronald Schofield, president; Joseph Grigelevich, vice president; Diane Graiko, secretary; Mary Whittaker, treasurer; and Althea Maziarz, librarian.

FUTURE NURSES

Through the Nurses Club girls learn the requirements and opportunities of a nursing career. The first meeting of the year brought the election of these officers: president, Elizabeth Munley; vice president, Patricia Lee; secretary, Maryanne Carter; treasurer, Gloria Larocque. Officers in the afternoon session were moderator, Patricia Cinieri; assistant secretary, Mary Costa; and assistant treasurer, Patricia Evon. The club meets twice a month and visits local hospitals. Demonstrations, films, speakers from various hospitals, and service projects were presented during the year. The highlight of the year was a Christmas Dance and Penny Social sponsored by the club. All proceeds went toward a Scholarship Fund for a deserving member of the club.

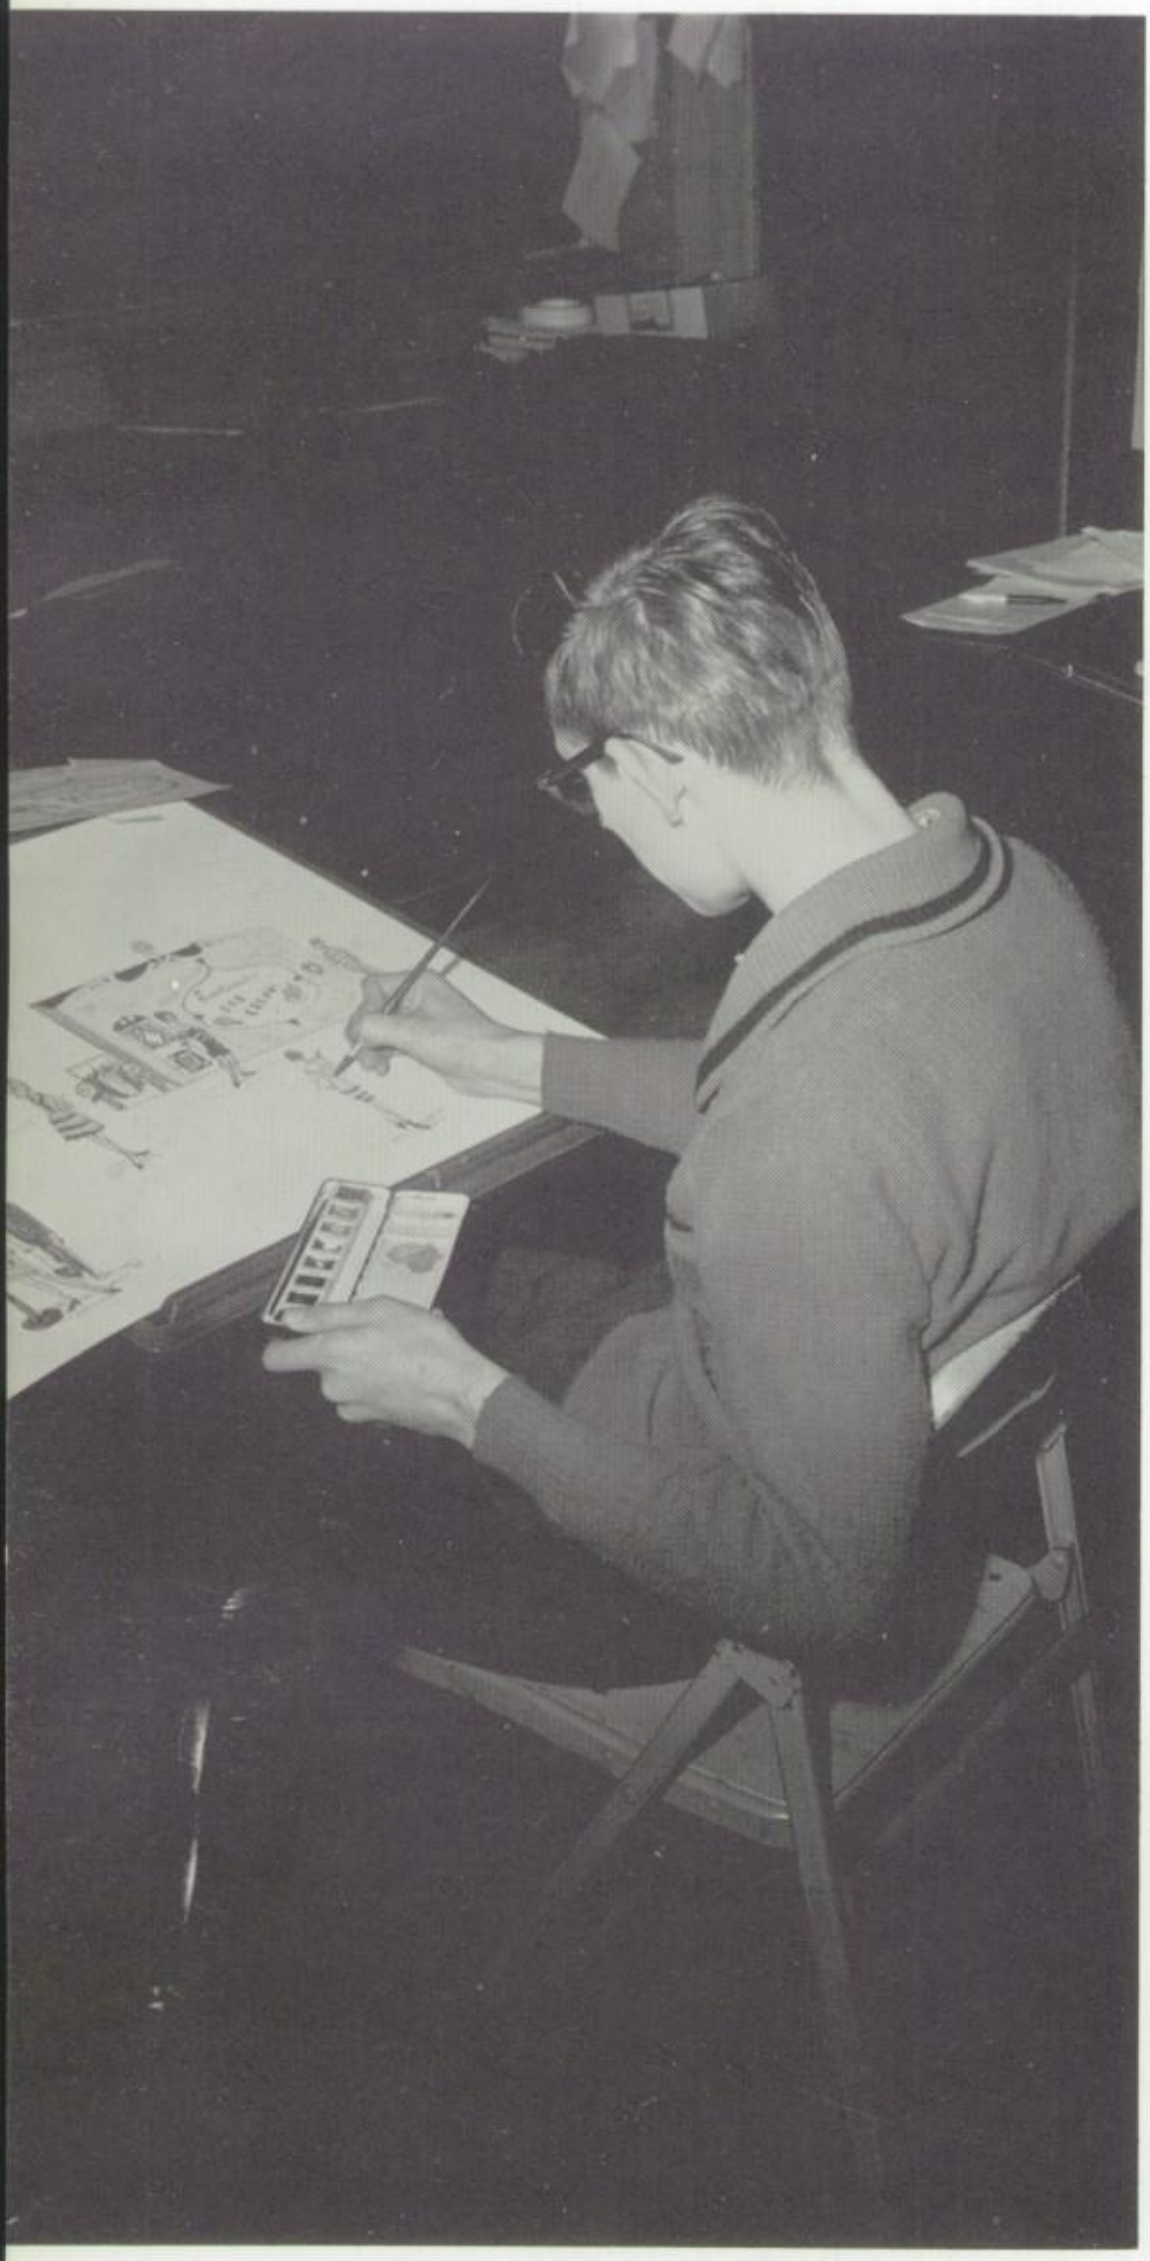
FUTURE DIPLOMATS OF AMERICA

To introduce students to careers in diplomacy and to give them a background in diplomatic procedures, the Future Diplomats Club was formed this year. Under the supervision of Mr. Frederick Lynch, the students were acquainted with the requirements and the problems involved in taking up a career in the diplomatic service.

Among the procedures taught are legal processes and court trials. The participating students engage in mock treason trials and debates. The officers of the Future Diplomats Club are Ken Beauvais, president, and Suzanne Lusignan, secretary.

Club Participation Helps Provide



DESIGNING scenery for school plays is one of the Art Club's many varied activities. Edward Wignall sketches plans for scene from The Boyfriend.

ART CLUB

Throughout the school, bulletin boards display colorful posters calling attention to future events: class socials, plays, club dances, and other social attractions. Making posters is only one of the activities of the Art Club. Under the supervision of Miss Irene Geddes, the club has visited the Museum of Art at the Rhode Island School of Design and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. This year, the Art Club has made a study of oil paints. Through the Art Club, talented students are encouraged to use their leisure time to further their study in the field of art, either as a hobby or as a career.

Officers of the club's morning meeting were Marie Pasquale, president; Marjorie Meehan, vice president; Andrea Mazza, secretary, and Elaine Kurtz, treasurer. Officers of the freshman Art Club were Roger Laroque, president; Michael Lorette, vice president; and Stephanie Dunayeski, secretary-treasurer.

Well-Rounded Education

BATON poised, Mr. Carney prepares to direct the orchestra in the Annual Christmas Assembly.

ORCHESTRA

Students who are interested in music and who display talent in playing an instrument find an outlet for their musical abilities in the Orchestra Club. Besides permitting these students to demonstrate their ability, the club teaches them to work in unison with fellow students, a very important factor in an orchestra. Mr. Carney, a capable musician himself, heads the club and contributes much of his knowledge and experience to the organization. The orchestra is active in many of the school gatherings and productions. In conjunction with the Glee Club, the Orchestra Club provides musical entertainment for such events as Honors Day, Class Night, Graduation, and various assemblies.

AUDIO-VISUAL CLUB

The Audio-Visual Club, organized this year in conjunction with the Audio-Visual Aids Department, trains students in the simple maintenance and proper handling of equipment. During club periods members learn correct procedures and distribution of equipment throughout the building. Experienced students operate projectors and tape recorders, thus leaving teachers free to give their attention to their classes. Officers of the morning session were John Konicki, president; Frederick Josephson, vice president; Barry Brady, secretary; and Edward Aldworth, treasurer. Freshman officers of the club were Bernard Norton, president; David Hartley, vice president; Jo Ann Thibeault, secretary, and Robert Skorupa, treasurer.

SLIDE projector operation, demonstrated by John Konicki, is a skill that Audio-Visual Club members must learn.

DRAMA CLUB

"All the world's a stage" for the Drama Club at Cumberland. Under Miss Constance Landrigan, the Drama Club's advisor, Cumberland's young thespians have had their most successful year. The Drama Club cultivates an active interest in the legitimate theater by weekly club activities and periodic play productions. The year began with skits presented by club members and the election of the following slate of officers: Michele Ann Talbot, president; Fredrick Albert, vice president; Martha Johnson, secretary; Anne Miserandino, treasurer.

Activities for the year included a trip to the University of Rhode Island for a drama workshop; and, through the combined efforts of the Glee Club, the presentation of a Christmas pageant and a musical comedy review composed of selections from The Boyfriend, South Pacific, The King and I, and The Sound of Music. Members of the club also participated in the Rhode Island Drama Festival and the annual senior play. A trip to New York to see a Broadway production put the finishing touch on a profitable year.

HOBBY CLUB

In order to enable students to exchange information about their hobbies, Cumberland High School has organized a Hobby Club, under the direction of Mr. Taraborelli. Students who participated in the Hobby Club met once a week during club period and explained their various hobbies and projects. Among the hobbies discussed were goat raising, pigeon raising, geology, skin diving, stamp collecting, Indian arrowhead collecting, astronomy, and the building of model airplanes and ships. The officers of the club were Charles Santos, president; Thomas Goslin, vice president; and JoAnn Goldsmith, secretary-treasurer.

SECRETARIES CLUB

The Secretaries Club has been organized for students looking forward to a secretarial position following graduation. The club acquaints students with secretarial occupations and requirements, duties, salaries, and opportunities of secretaries. Also, members are familiarized with the attitudes and personality traits necessary for obtaining and holding a job.

These aims are fulfilled through group discussions, the reading of current literature, guest speakers, field trips—one of which took place at Bryant College—and audio-visual aids.

With the help of Mr. Connell, its advisor, the Secretaries Club was run smoothly by Stella Skrzymiarz, president; Theresa Raicho, vice president; Louise Lecours, secretary; and Mary Ellen Keenan, treasurer.

and school assemblies. Joint concerts have been given by Glee Club and orchestra. This year, "Musical Memories" a history of the musical comedy, consisting of scenes from several well-known productions, was presented through the combined efforts of the Glee and Drama Clubs.

LANGUAGE CLUBS

Relating the culture and language of the French and Roman people is the goal of the Language Clubs. At meetings of the Latin Club members read stories of Roman wars, hold contests, and learn idioms. The French Club members study the great writers, learn music, and see movies on French life. The leaders of the Latin Club were Fredrick Janicki, president; Linda Damon, vice president; and Sandra Grayson, secretary-treasurer. Chosen as officers for the French Club were Roger Incerpi, president; Robert Morisette, vice president; Nancy Gilson, secretary; and Suzanne Desplaines, treasurer.

TEACHING Maria Cosme the proper way to write idiomatic expressions is the French Club advisor, James F. Luiz.

SCIENCE CLUB

Cumberland High School's Science Club has been organized to help members to prepare for hobbies and careers in this field, and to promote scientific interest among the student body.

At the top of the activities list of the Science Club is the annual science fair. The club's young scientists invite the students who are entering the competition to use the equipment on hand to prepare their projects. Mr. Conway, the club's advisor, helps the group perform experiments and conducts an annual trip to places of scientific interest. The club has been to the Boston Museum of Science and Planetarium and the Logan Airport.

Elected as officers to serve the club were Edward Sokoloski, president; and Sandra Audette, secretary-treasurer.

ROCKET CLUB

In a field behind Cumberland Hill School last winter, several members of the Rocket Club successfully launched a one-stage rocket. This was the first of several rocket experiments conducted by the club, assisted by Raymond Vaguener, faculty advisor. The club was organized by members of the Science Club who showed more interest in rockets than in any other field of science. Through their experiments, the members of the club are exploring a new phase of science, necessary to our nation's future.

Its officers were William Rogala, president; Benjamin Kut, vice president; and Arthur Johnson, secretary-treasurer.

Yearbook Editors Are The Co-

EDITORS review the work accomplished by their staff and discuss unfinished sections of the Reflector.

Last June the 1961 Reflector yearbook staff began planning pages, write-ups, and pictures. Working during the summer, the staff was able to experiment with layouts, plan pictures, and obtain more than half of the required amount of advertising.

In September, to meet the first payment of the book, the staff planned their first dance of the fall season at Cumberland High School.

October found the staff with another deadline to meet and the need for more funds. This time a car wash program was organized and held at the Ashton ESSO Station on Saturday, October 23, 1960. There wasn't as big a turnout as was expected, but all those who did participate said they enjoyed themselves.

Most of the photography was done by Paul Graf, the Yearbook Staff's photographer, who is especially talented in catching action. The only section Paul did not work on was the Senior Class pictures. This segment of the book was photographed by Kenny Rowbottom, our school photographer.

Ordinators And Leaders Of Their Staffs

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, Susan Whitman, leads the discussion with the editors Fred Andrews, advertising; Paul Graf, photography; Karen Curran, art; Ronald Schofield; literary; and Martha Wolf, business.

During November the staff editors, attended a special yearbook conference at the University of Rhode Island. The 1960 Reflector won an award for its senior class layout.

The subscription campaign began in December and the yearbook sales increased. The staff incorporated a third fund-raising plan—the selling of boosters.

In January, the underclassmen, who were working on the book for the first time, helped the staff to meet its next deadline.

In February the entire staff rushed to meet the March 3 deadline. The book had to be revised and condensed, and the meeting of the deadline hung upon the faithfulness and co-operation of the staff. The staff remained after school and came to meetings during vacation. On March 3, 1961, our book was finished and sent to the publisher.

At this time I would like to thank the teachers and parents for their assistance, and co-operation.

I hope that the seniors enjoy this book as much as we, the staff, enjoyed composing it for them.

Susan B. Whitman, Editor-in-Chief

Staff Struggles To

Work on the yearbook is carefully divided so that each person has a duty to perform in preparing the books. Members of the Make-up, Literary, and Business Staffs put the book together. The Advertising Staff sold ads and boosters to help finance the book. Pictures of these staffs are shown here. On the next Twirlers await future football games.

One of the new additions to the activities at Cumberland High School this year is the Twirling Squad, organized by junior and sophomore girls in anticipation of the football games to be held at the new high school. They will provide part of the halftime entertainment. The group started practice in November, instructed by Carol Manseau and Susan Potter.

After settling the problem of their uniform style the girls, under the guidance of Mrs. McKee, made their costumes in the Home Economics department.

Now the eighteen-member Twirling Squad, after many months of practice, eagerly awaits the opening of school and the first football game.

From Time To Time

Class History . . .

Class History Reflects The

FRESHMAN YEAR

September of 1957 marked the beginning of a new era for the hectic and bustling Freshman Class who entered Cumberland High School in Valley Falls. It was also the year that Robert G. Condon became the school's principal. Throughout our first year we recorded many new and memorable events, including harassing from upperclassmen, the meeting of new friends and teachers, homerooms, the different periods, and the class elections. Dennis Allard became president; Armand Costa, vice president; Barbara Palana, secretary; and Raymond Hilton, treasurer. Our Freshman Party introduced us to the social activities of the high school. Pursuing our courses, books and homework became the dominant factors in that year.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

Returning to Cumberland High we felt superior for we were no long the lowly freshmen but the sophisticated sophomores of our school. At our class assembly students for class offices were nominated, and during the following week ambitious campaigning resulted in the election of Dennis Allard, president; Armand Costa, vice president; Barbara Palana, secretary; and Phyllis Belmore, treasurer. The big event of our second year was the Sophomore Hop held in the school auditorium, where we danced to "April in Paris," the theme of the dance.

JUNIOR YEAR

Anticipation and excitement describe our Junior Year. CHS politicians began the year with vigorous campaigning which enabled Dennis Allard to become president; Ernest Barlow, vice president; Barbara Palana, secretary; and Phyllis Belmore, treasurer.

This year brought recognition to our class as Alan Gomberg and Phyllis Belmore received PTA Awards for Scholastic Excellence, and as Paul Dacey won the Pawtucket Rotary American History Contest. Selected as representatives to Girls' State were Helen Mycroft and Phyllis Belmore.

When we were measured for class rings our excitement grew, for we realized that our Junior Prom was quickly approaching. Finally on May 6, the big event arrived. The Class of 1961 will long remember the Junior Prom where we received our class rings and danced amid "Apple Blossom Time" decorations. Crowned as queen was Suzanne Bernier and included in her court were Karen Curran, Shirley Robideau, Susan Whitman and Diane Teal.

With final exams completed,. the next step in our high school days was as superior seniors.

SENIOR YEAR

Our Senior Year marked a big change in our school lives. To meet the crowded conditions of the high school, double sessions were instituted. Our fourth year was full of activities. Elected to serve as class officers were Dennis Allard, president; Paul Dacey, vice president; Barbara Palana, secretary; and Phyllis Belmore, treasurer.

First event on our social calendar was the Senior Dance, held in our high school auditorium. Crowned as King and Queen were Dennis Allard and Judith Acciaioli.

Unforgettable Events Of School Years

CHECKING and rechecking sales slips kept our ring committee busy. Hard at work are R. Lefebure, S. Tardiff, D. Allard, E. Brodeur, P. Belmore, M. Wolf, C. Carroll (chairman), J. Kaplan, S. Oakley, S. Bernier, M. E. Keenean, A. Gomberg. Miss Glancy is faculty advisor.

During the year, class members participated in many extracurricular activities. Chosen to be Junior Rotarians were Paul Dacey, Alan Gomberg, and Kenneth Beauvais, and Quota Club representatives were Stella Skrzymiarz and Sandra Oakley. Students, who were selected as members of the Rhode Island Honor Society, were honored at the Honors Day Program held on April 5.

At last the long awaited graduating activities began. The traditional Senior Reception was held on June 1, at the Sheriton-Biltmore Ballroom. At Class Night, awards were given to students who participated in sports and clubs, while several class members displayed their musical talents. Graduation Day, held on June 9, was the event which closed but yet opened a stage of our lives.

RECORDING his prize-winning "Voice of Democracy" speech is Fred Andrews, a Cumberland High senior. The speech, selected from entries submitted by speech and English students, employed the theme "I am the voice of democracy." Miss Landrigan is advisor.

Apple Blossom Time Decorations

SMILING faces of the queen, Suzanne Bernier, and her court, Diane Teal, Shirley Robideau, Susan Whitman and Karen Curran, reflect the gay atmosphere of the Junior Prom.

GRAND MARCH beneath the apple blossoms provided juniors and their guests with a memorable event to make the enjoyable evening complete.
